Similar opinions were expressed by delegates of a majority of the powers represented.

The safeguarding of the Moscow Doctrine is in the hands of the drafting committee, and Colonel House is expected to see that the new covenant takes satisfactory care of that matter. It is not absolutely certain that any specific reference will be made in the text of the covenant in view of the nature of the problem.

RAISE "OLD GLORY" OVER GREATEST GERMAN FORTRESS

Allies Plan to Prepare Public Opinion Against Harsh Terms for Germany

By International News Service.

London, March 27.—Plans are underway to prepare public opinion against the expectation of excessive peace terms for Germany. It is learned from a trustworthy authority in Paris, said a Central News dispatch from that city today. It will be insisted, according to this source, that a "reasonable" peace is necessary to avoid bloodshed in the next generation.

One of the most striking historic events in the American Army of Occupation in Germany is pictured in this photograph in the raising of the Stars and Stripes over the most powerful German fortress on the Rhine. Ehrenbreitstein, as the fortress is known, is the most powerful fortress on the Rhine. It was destroyed by the French after the close of the Napoleonic wars. It stands on a lofty hill at the junction of the Rhine and the Moselle rivers at Coblenz and commands an extensive view of the surrounding country.

REORGANIZATION OF R. I. TROLLEYS PLANNED

Governor Beckman and Other State Officers Behind New Company

Providence, April 27.—Radical changes in Rhode Island street railway conditions are expected from introduction of a bill in the House today by which the General Assembly is asked for permission to incorporate United Electric Railways Company, with Governor R. Livingston Beckman, State Tax Commissioner Z. W. Hines and State Bank Examiner George H. Newhall as the incorporators.

At present the Rhode Island company, which is in the hands of a permanent receiver and had a $5,000 deficit last month, owns or controls all the street railway property in the State. The United Electric Railways Company names $500,000 as its incorporation figure, and asks to be allowed to take over the Rhode Island company's holdings or such part of them as it may desire at their physical valuation.

This move does not mean State control, but persons familiar with the situation say that those who hold stock in the old company may join. This would, it is believed, reduce the stock of the Rhode Island Company.

Governor Beckman said the plan of the United Electric Railways Company is to give the people the very best service at the lowest possible cost. This, he said, could not be done under the old management.

The reorganization bill was drafted by Attorney-General Herbert A. Rice, at the request of the several interests involved. Its provisions were considered at meetings attended by Governor Beckman, Mayor (Mayor of Providence) and others before it was finally submitted.

PROFIT IN FISH SOLD AT LOWER PRICES

then promoting would pay larger dividends than any company then in existence, and sell cheaper fish. He declared the main problem was getting the fish and that he would solve that by the large number of fishing trawlers which the new company would own.

FULHAM ON STAND.

Dyer blamed the public for buying frozen fish. It is because they will not eat fresh fish that fish has to be put into freezers, he stated, except in the months of December, January and February, when fish is put into freezers to avoid a shortage.

"Was Mr. Dyer asked this question?" asked Attorney Webster. "Have you made any contract for freezing space at any time?"

"He was," replied Matthews, and he answered: "Last year we made a contract with Mr. Faine of the Colonial Cold Storage Company for freezing."

Nicholas L. Fulham of the Fulham-Herbert Company, one of the largest fish firms on the pier, described the efforts that were made to induce him to affiliate with the Bay State Fish Company. He said that Dyer invited him to the Hotel Essex, where, in company with John Burns, Jr., he proposed the affiliation. He also told of a meeting in Burns' office at which Frank O'Hara, another large dealer, was present. These meetings, he said, took place in June and July of 1918.

Fulham denied that at the meeting in which O'Hara was present that Dyer said to him: "You had better come in before it is too late." He said that in the sale of his concern to the Boston Fish Pier Company, he $15,000 worth of common and were and his partner, Herbert, received each guaranteed salaries of $2,500 per $10,000 worth of preferred stock and 1 year.

U. S. OPENS WAR FOR SHARE OF THE WORLD

Government to Aid Exporters in Developing Markets for Nation's Goods

By WINDER R. HARRIS, Staff Correspondent of National Bureau

Washington, March 27.—America's fight for the mastery of the world trade is on. Full power of the government will be put squarely behind exporters seeking to develop foreign markets for their country's goods.

The administration has determined upon a policy of active action to overcome the barbed wire of the British blockade. "Father" foreign trade manœuvres designed to hamper commerce expansion of the United States.

First official information as to the new foreign trade plan came today in a statement from the State Department. Acting Secretary William Phillips announced the organization of a "committee on foreign trade."

MADE IN AMERICA SLOGAN

The creation of an organization to make "Made in America" a familiar trade label in every nook and corner of the globe's markets was authorized by an order signed by President Wilson on February 28, during his recent stay in Washington.

The State Department announced today that it will make it plain to the United States no longer will follow a course of "hands off" policy in the world and other European countries are recovering from the effects of the British blockade. The United States is looking upon the European opportunity as a policy to be taken. The full advantage will be taken of the full conditions. Mr. Phillips said.

There was a general feeling of jubilation among the delegates today over the fact that the League of Nations is no longer a troublesome factor in the first peace treaty. No effort is being made in the session now to control the League of Nations. Bolshevik disorders in Russia and Hungary.

It was stated from both British and American sources today that a free, in no way, law and order and anarchy, and that the delegates would have to exert all possible effort to meet the menace. There is a very urgent feeling, however, that the League treaty will contain sufficient concessions to restore order in the world.

Steps are being taken by a committee on the international regime of waterways, ports and railways to establish a railway link between Paris and the Orient without passing through the territory of the central empires.

RAILWAY TO THE ORIENT

The following communication was issued by this committee:

"The commission on the international regime of ports, waterways and railways met on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the ministry of public works. The commission heard representatives of the Dutch government in regard to the regime to be applied to the Rhine.

"The Dutch point of view was presented by Professor Van Binsbergen, a professor at the University of Leiden.

"Mr. Clavelle, French Minister of Public Works, reported to the commission a plan to assure railway relations between England, France and Italy on one hand and the Orient on the other, without passing through the territory of the central empires. He called the 'Simpson-Orient Express' will run from Paris to the Orient by way of Lausanne (Switzerland), the Simplon tunnel, Milan, Venice, Trieste, Ljubljana and the Balkans.

"The train will consist at Paris with the London-Calais-Paris train and at Milan with a train from Rome. Part of this program will be put through about April 15 and the other part about May 1.

"The commission has continued its investigation of clauses to be inserted in the peace treaty relating to ports that are to be put under international control."

500,000 BOES WOUND IN FIGHT, SAYS CHIEF

Gen. Pilsudsky Hopes for Supplies and Equipment From Allies

By JOHN BAARS, American Press Representative with the American Mission in Poland

Warsaw, via Paris, March 27.—That Poland can put an army of 500,000 men in the field was revealed here by General Pilsudsky, commander of the Polish Army, in an interview today. "We have men and officers, but no uniforms, rifles, munitions or guns," said the general. "The land is attacked on three sides and cannot protect herself without technical war materials, which we are not yet able to manufacture. We are grateful to the allies, and especially the United States, from which we have received something very definite, namely food."

MILITARY NEWS

"America has guns, munition, airplanes and auto trucks which will probably not be required by the United States, and this equipment would be of inestimable value to us."

"The Ukrainians are superior to us in equipment. They are organized by former officers of the Austrian army. They are fighting the enemy, but not of the same quality of certain equipment. It is superior to us in the Ukrainian army because they have arms and ammunition left behind by the Germans and Austrians when they left."

"The Bolsheviks have always considered the fact that the League of Nations is no longer a troublesome factor in the first peace treaty. No effort is being made in the session now to control the League of Nations. Bolshevik disorders in Russia and Hungary."

It was stated from both British and American sources today that a free, in no way, law and order and anarchy, and that the delegates would have to exert all possible effort to meet the menace. Unpaid for 9 Months Is Unable to Buy Wound Stripes

No pay for nine months not even to buy his wound stripes. That is the way Fred W. Dowell, a Connecticut soldier, arrived at New York from overseas. He is a private in G Company, 162d Infantry.

He landed in the Italian liner Francesco, with this story: "I missed the paymaster for nine months. He said I was missed me. I've been leading him a merry chase all over the front, ever since I was gassed in the Chemin des Dames sector in March and wounded in the army by shrapnel at Chateau-Thierry in July."

"I'm entitled to wear two wound stripes. But Uncle Sam isn't paying any more for his soldiers and I didn't have the price to buy any."

Miss Douglas testified that a week ago last Saturday she was summoned by telephone to Mrs. Hardy's apartment in West Newton street and asked if she remembered while she was nursing Daniel H. Hallatt that he reminded him of an agreement to pay the plaintiff for his services if she would not insist on marriage.

NERVED YOUNG HALLETT.

Miss Douglas testified that she told Mrs. Hardy she didn't remember. Mrs. Hardy, continued the witness, then asked if she would not testify that she heard such a statement, and reminded her that she was paid.

"My lawyers tell me that such a statement by you would win my case," Mrs. Hardy told the witness.

Miss Douglas, who lives at No. 415 Newbury street, Boston, married Daniel H. Hallatt, 27, of West Newton street, in 1915 and 1917, each time in a civil ceremony.

She admitted in answer to questions by Attorney Walsh that she attempted to influence her testimony that she called up the older Hallatt and told him of the incident.

"Why did you do that?" she was asked. "I thought it was my duty," she replied.

She denied that she expected any financial reward from the former Hallatt for refusing to testify against him, or that she told him she was a poor girl.

"How much have you got out of this case so far?" she was asked, and said "I got it last night, my witness fee. That is all."

The nurse testified regarding the "ginseng" of the younger Hallatt, that he was often gassed from the effects of liquor during 1916 and 1917, but she did not remember how serious these attacks were.

The defendant, Mr. Hallatt, interrupted his own testimony today to permit the nurse to testify, as she wanted to leave the case who was in the case when she had completed her story the meeting between her and Mrs. Hardy.

British Paper Urges Release of American Who Hit Policeman

By Universal Service, Special Cable Dispatch.

London, March 27.—The Home Secretary is urged editorially by the Daily Express to liberate Private James Ross Campbell, nineteen, an American boy, who came to the west coast of France to enlist and fight in the British army.

He was sentenced to six months at hard labor for striking a policeman in the recent British riot, when American, Australian and Canadian soldiers and sailors fought a pitched battle with a small army of London "bobbies."

"Here is a boy who, fired with enthusiasm for his country and its cause, voluntarily leaves his home, 7,000 miles away, to fight for us. We could wish no finer cause of showing our gratitude and brotherly feeling for our American cousins than here."

Hardy two weeks ago he resumed the stand, and again denied any agreement to pay the plaintiff money.

SUGGESTED TEST FIND.

Lawrence, March 27.—An official investigation of the mill operative strike will be conducted by the State, beginning Monday afternoon, under the direction of the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration, for the purpose of determining those responsible for its existence and continuance.

William J. Kerwin of New Bedford and George H. Wynn of Springfield have been invited by Commissioner Charles G. Wood to assist him in his investigation, which is scheduled to take place at the City Hall here.

"CAN'T CUT OFF MY LEG" SAYS RAILROAD ENGINEER

This picture, from Hearst News Film, shows James E. Fraser at work in his studio on a partly completed head and bust of the late Theodore Roosevelt. The bust is being made from a death mask made by Mr. Fraser.

By WILLIAM J. BUTLER.
London, March 27.—In these days of nation-wide labor unrest so pregnant with serious strikes and disorders throughout Britain, W. Adamson, M. P., chairman of the Labor party, in an interview, has given the united claims of organized labor.

This sandy-haired, two-fisted, broad shouldered ex-miner, who has fought his way up from the coal pit to the halls of Parliament, where he sits as the leader of the Opposition party, advocates:

1. State ownership of laboring

1. Boston is being flooded with counterfeit half dollars, postoffice and bank officials say.

2. A share in the control of all staple industries.

3. Better housing.

4. More leisure.

5. Economic security, and

6. The right to stand on an equal footing with all other sections of the country.

PEOPLE AWAKENED.

"During recent years," Mr. Adamson said, "and as a result of the war there has been a growing awakening among the working classes that it is not really necessary in the interests of the empire that the great mass of the community should work on the basis of the sweat and blood of the few."

FINE LYNN SHOE MEN IN CHILD LABOR CASES

Five Manufacturers Found Guilty on Complaint of School Board

Five Lynn shoe manufacturers were found guilty in Lynn Court today of violating the child labor laws. They were charged by the school board of Lynn with employing minors who had not secured certificates from the board.

Four of the firms had their cases tried by payment of the sum of $10 and costs. They were the D. A. Donovan Shoe Company, the Donovan Shoe Company, the Davis Shoe Company and the Welch Shoe Company.

The case of the John H. Donovan shoe company was tried. The charges are the direct result of a campaign conducted by the school board of Lynn during which 800 minors were rounded up, who were employed in shoe factories and who had no school certificates.

Shell-Shock Victim of Revere Sent to Asylum

Ernest Miller, a Canadian soldier who recently took up residence with his wife and two-year-old boy on Hill street, Revere, was today sent to the Danvers Insane Hospital for observation. Miller's confinement followed a period of aberration which led to desertion of his family on March 15. His condition is believed to be the result of shell-shock.

He was arrested in Worcester for refusal to pay his taxes on a street car, which led to the disclosure of his identity in court. After being remanded to jail for inability to pay a fine of $10, the fee was paid by a relative and he returned to Revere in a dangerous mental condition. The Boston Psychopathic Hospital refused to consider his case on technical grounds, so he was sent to Danvers. His wife and son are in destitute circumstances in Revere.

PREDICTS BRITISH RAIL MEN WILL ACCEPT OFFER

London, March 27.—That the railway men will accept the suggested offer of the government today, averting a general strike, was the forecast made by the Exchange Telegraph. The extremists among the leaders of the railway men's union are still demanding a government promise of the nationalization of all lines, however.

BAKER ORDERS MORE SPEED IN DISCHARGES

War Secretary, After Tour of Camps, Calls for Better Demobilization

Washington, March 27.—Greater speed and uniformity in demobilization has been ordered by Secretary of War Baker, who has returned to Washington after a tour of the army camps.

The average time required for discharge at the various camps was forty-eight hours, but at some camps men were detained six days. It is predicted that these orders will have an immediate effect in hastening the return of soldiers to their homes.

JESSE POWERS DIES IN PRISON

Famous Lifer Impressed with "Born Commander and Leader" Who Visited Prison

Jesse Harding Powers, America's most famous prisoner, has added his name to the hundreds who have spoken or written words of praise and thanks for Major-General Clarence K. Edwards. Powers, in a letter to the Rev. Father Murphy, chaplain at the Charlestown State Prison, who was sent to General Edwards, writes:

March 26, 1919.
Rev. M. J. Murphy.

Dear Sir:—One chapter is fast becoming a notable gathering place where we are privileged to meet and to hear the best that Boston or elsewhere can present.

The coming today of General Edwards, the first commander of our famous 26th Division, in every respect a most remarkable event, is a great privilege to me. The wheels of industry here are set afloat for everybody who may have a speech for us; yet the message of the general was well worth the occasion and the man, seldom a speaker to us, relative matters when we have participated through some of our numbers at especially in go creditable manner as in this world war. And our general was most generous and helpful to us in all his references to us, in common speech, is called a "big bird."

It is to be pleasure to be in the presence of the pride of patriotism and true manhood, displayed by the inmates here, in our varied war activities, is a notable and justly treasured record. Our service emblem has at least sixty-six of the number from among us to join the army or navy, and five gold stars mark the survivors. I am proud of our country. I need not speak of the money subscribed to help the Red Cross or other organizations. Truly, all birds here are in the 26th Division, know how to do and die when necessary. It was therefore especially interesting to us to hear the general when he knew a few of our jail birds and he knew their general honor. All of us may feel inspired by the highest ideal of a soldier, the significance of the general's remarks, even for jail birds, to create most of us to have been placed with him, in company with other jail birds.

A born commander, a leader to be followed with passive devotion, a broad minded, even tempered and kind feeling officer, with sympathy and encouragement even for jail birds, the general struck a key that is not often heard. His words fell to heart and helped many men who long for better things. The kindness of his personality was not to be forgotten, and his intimate details of how the 26th and did overcome the fatigue and brave German contemptuous of the "Tank," was a masterpiece, vivid and most interesting.

Our thanks are due to him and to all who gave us the unique occasion of his visit, to me in an special way it will ever be a red letter day, because I first saw and heard a West Point man. I now know what they are the best ever.

Major Frank W. Cavanaugh, former Dartmouth football coach, is now coaching the football team of the American Expeditionary Force in France. It had been expected he would return this month, but a card received by his son David in Worcester made known that the demands of the football fans of the army of occupation had been too insistent for the major to resign.

JEWS MASSACRED IN BUENOS AIRES POGROM

Philadelphia, March 27.—The whereabouts of $25,000 worth of Liberty bonds stolen from the Land Title and Trust Company is more of a mystery than ever since William Kiehl of Boston and Louis Merriam of this city, convicted of the theft, began their two and one-half years' sentence. KNIGHTS BRADY TO WELCOME Y. D. ATTYER

Barracks Building Beautifully Remodeled for the Use of Soldiers

By THOMAS F. PHELAN.
Camp Devens, April, March 27.—The Knights of Columbus in this area are keeping the home free burning for the boys of the Yankee division. They have established a welcome but in the Depot Brigade, it will be completed and ready for occupancy Easter Sunday or sooner.

It is a barracks building turned over by the camp authorities to the Knights. A wonderful transformation has taken place. The mess hall has been turned into a reading room. An extensive library will spread its treasures before the heroes. The American Library Association has contributed 100 books.

On the second floor a wonderful change has been made. Half of the room has been set aside for the chapel of St. Martin the Centurion. Beautiful paintings adorn the walls. The remaining half is intended for school purposes. A room has been set aside for the use of reading English, stenography and other books.

Patrons for the welcome but have been busy the past fortnight making blue, tan and red rose curtains for the entire building at the home of Mrs. Leon D. Sullivan, No. 5 Pleasant street.

Patrons are Mrs. Sullivan, Mrs. Thomas McElane, Mrs. William Currier, Mrs. Susan Duffy, Mrs. Susan Neuman, Mrs. Mary McCarthy, Mrs. Madeline McCarthy, Mrs. Susan McCarthy, Mrs. Mollie Sullivan and Mrs. Mary McCarthy.

Another proposition in which the knights of Columbus are engaged in working out is a hostess, or mother, for the reception and entertainment of the young women expected to be in the home of the first Infantry of the Yankee Division.

Discharged patients from the hospitals who were given "due bills" for part of the money they left in the custody of officers of that institution during their illness are up in arms. They have found that the "due bills" are worthless unless Congress passes an appropriation to make up the deficit caused by an alleged theft of $7,000 by Sergeant Robert J. Davidson, receiving clerk who was recently court-martialed.

Jazz Band Furnishes Musical Novelty of the Year

Every decade furnishes a new musical novelty, and the great variety has provided the most musical novelty of this year, in the shape of Lieutenant James Reese Europe's great band, which is the 36th U. S. Infantry's black "Hell Fighters" of the Champagne.

This is a band that was the chief entertainment, not only of the American army, but of the French as well, during the last year.

The black musicians under Lieutenant Europe have just returned from France and are now engaged in a transatlantic concert tour which was inaugurated in New York city a week ago, where the opening concert was a jazz festival of unparalleled magnificence.

Lieutenant Europe gives a diversified musical entertainment with singers, violin, piano, vocal soloists and orchestra. The chief singer is Lieutenant Noble Sibley, whose rendition of the popular ballad in a particular feature of the Europe band entertainment. The band will give four concerts at the Boston Opera House, tomorrow afternoon and evening and Saturday afternoon and evening.

Reactionaries Are Trying to Discredit Secretary Baker

One Dick V. Foster, a resigned major in our army, accuses Secretary of War Baker of "aiding and abetting the I. W. W., the International Socialists and the Humanitarians in their program of blocking the construction of the army. Foster made his charges against Secretary Baker in a talk to the Civic Club of Kansas City.

Neither the character of the charges nor the importance of the man warrants an editorial discussion of them, except for the unusual publicity which has been given these accusations. As this seems to be part of a propaganda to injure Secretary Baker in the eyes of the American people, it may be well to analyze the charges. Major Dick says:

Confidential letters and bulletins were sent to commanding generals of all National Army and National Guard cantonments and camps, the very nature of which prohibited any officer in the United States Army imparting to the public their contents. Each confidential order or bulletin contained the closing paragraph:

"Under no circumstances should these instructions be communicated to the newspapers."

Public opinion, no doubt, was responsible for the secrecy of these instructions, as they were of a nature which would have been resented to the American public had they known the full facts.

One of the first of those secret orders provided absolute immunity for any man who chose to refuse military service. In part it reads:

"With reference to their attitude of objecting to military service, these men are not to be treated as violating military laws, thereby subjecting themselves to the penalties of the articles of war, but their attitude in this respect will be quietly ignored and they will be treated with kindly consideration."

Officers of the army were dumfounded that the War Department should order violations of military laws to be quietly ignored and that violators of the law be treated with kindly consideration.

Now what does all this amount to? Nothing more than that Secretary Baker did not want to treat men who had honest, conscientious scruples against military service in the same way that the coward and the general all-around characterless shirk was to be treated.

What did the order that his instructions must be regarded as secret mean? Obviously, nothing more than that he did not want conscientious objectors or anybody else who might have an objection to serving in our armies to know that they were going to be leniently treated. With the severe punishment meted out to unscrupulous would-be dodgers of military service, it took a great deal more courage for a man to insist upon honest conscientious objection and face the punishment that he supposed he would get than to yield to the duty of performing military service. Only those who had highly developed conscientious objections would be likely, if they supposed they were going to face severe punishment, to incur it. But, on the other hand, if the attitude of the Secretary of War was known and everybody understood that objectors to military service who put it upon the ground of conscience were to be treated kindly, every slacker and coward would become a conscientious objector immediately.

So long as the conscientious objectors were so few in number that they were unimportant and their failure to respond to their military duty made no appreciable difference in the military power of the country, it was right for Secretary Baker to treat them as men who obey their conscience ought to be treated. They were generally men of the highest character, and the orders were clear that they were not to be treated kindly unless the officers who had charge of their case should consider them to be HONEST conscientious objectors and NOT merely slackers.

Of course, whenever their number became so great as to make a difference in the military power of the country then, honest or not, their objections could not have been recognized, and they must have been compelled to serve under the severest penalty. It was to prevent just such a contingency that Secretary Baker insisted that the officers to whom the orders were issued should treat the orders confidentially.

These charges, therefore, have clearly no significance except so far as they reveal a propaganda against Secretary Baker which has been going on ever since Mr. Baker entered the Cabinet. The reactionaries of the country know that Secretary Baker is one of our intellectual progressives, whose influence in the Cabinet has been exercised in a forward direction, and they are determined to destroy him in the country, if possible. It is, therefore, the duty of every liberal-minded man to watch out for these attacks, to analyze them carefully and with a suspicion against their credibility. A public officer who has borne the burden which Secretary Baker has borne so well during the war is entitled to a presumption in his favor against such charges. In truth, we shall not make any really great progress in this country until liberals learn to stand by each other just as the reactionaries stand by each other.

BECAUSE you were unable to have educational advantages when you were younger, you find yourself now, at middle age, badly handicapped. You have hesitated about taking a position which would not give you the income you need with a growing family because you are aware of your deficiencies.

But while your knowledge is limited, you cannot bring yourself to the point of joining one of the clubs to which you might have access, just because you are sensitive about exposing your ignorance before younger students.

The result is that you go on from year to year, fearing to reveal the shaky foundation by which you hold your present job.

Why not get private instruction if you realize your lack and your needs?

Some one is capable of teaching you, and what if it does take one, two or three years to prepare a foundation which cannot be undermined? You are not too old to learn. Get that idea out of your head.

But you must concentrate and you must press forward in spite of discouragements, and your study must be consecutive and consistent.

Your mental attitude is the great thing incidental to accomplishment.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

JUST A SUGGESTION

I HAVE looked at the languorous lion
Who loitered about on the screen.
With a drag in his step and so lacking in pep
That the hero could get away clean;
And I have wondered how wide-eyed producers
Could pass up a beautiful chance
To enliven the screen with an animal scene
That would sell out six months in advance.

WHAT is needed in the movies is a wildcat.
Who will never slack or soldier on his job,
Who will furnish you with action to your utmost satisfaction
And supply you with one long, continuous thrill.
Though the hero may be handsome and athletic,
Though he wear the hero type of easy grin,
When at last they come to mix it, there will be no way to fix it,
When it's safe to bet the wildcat's going to win.

TOO often are crowds disappointed
When the hero escapes from the stage,
And the lion, too weak to give voice to his pique,
Makes an effort to register rage.
They came there expecting a battle—
And a battle worth seeing, at that—
But there wasn't a fight or so much as a bite,
And the show fell exceedingly flat.

BUT just live up a movie with a wildcat,
Just enclose him with a hero in a pen,
And you're sure there will be fighting that is going to be exciting,
With some wildly thrilling moments now and then.
Give the wildcat half a chance to get things started,
Do not let the hero dog it or evade
An encounter with the creature, and you'll have a movie feature
That will beat the greatest picture ever made!

THIS IS A BAD TIME FOR LEAGUES
It might help the boosters of the League of Nations to remember what happened to the Federal League.

WHO WOULDN'T?
The first robbers awakened no enthusiasm this Spring. Everybody suspects that he has stayed here all Winter.

Ye TOWN GOSSIP

By K. C. B.

SHE'S a little girl,
ABOUT six years old,
AND MY wife and I
WERE AT her house.
AND HAVING lunch.
AND AFTER lunch,
SHE CAME over to me,
AND WANTED to know
IF IT WERE true,
THAT I LIKED little girls.
WHAT I LIKED little girls,
AND IT WOULDN'T DO,
TO CAST A DOUBT,
ON HER mother's word,
AND, OF course, I said,
THAT I LIKED little girls.
AND LITTLE boys,
AND SHE looked quite pleased,
AND ASKED me then,
IF I LIKED her,
AND I said I did,
AND SHE got on my lap,
AND WHISPERED to me,
THAT SHE WAS quite sure,
IF I asked her mother,
THAT SHE'D let her go,
TO A motion picture,
ALONG WITH ME,
AND THERE WAS I,
AND THERE WAS SHE,
RIGHT ON MY lap,
AND WHAT COULD I DO,
BUT ASK her mother,
IF WE MIGHT GO,
AND SHE said we might,
AND WE went downtown,
AND OUT in the front,
OF the picture house,
WERE THE bills of the play,
AND SHE closed one,
WITH A comedy bill,
THAT PROMISED well,
BUT THE feature play,
WAS A problem thing,
WITH A vampire man,
AND A poor working girl,
BUT THE comedy bill,
HAD A great appeal,
TO THE little girl,
AND WE had to go in,
AND WHEN we sat down,
IT WAS right in the midst,
OF THE vampire play,
AND THE villain was there,
AND THE poor working girl,
AND WHATEVER IT WAS,
THAT THE villain said,
I REALLY don't know,
BUT THE girl backed up,
AND THE villain grabbed her,
AND THEY started to fight,
AND MY little girl friend,
ROSE UP in her seat,
AND YELLED right out,
SO THAT ALL could hear,
"THERE THEY GO!
"THEY'RE GOING TO wrestle her,
"AND TEAR her clothes,
"AND THROW her down,"
AND AFTER that,
I JUST sat there,
IN A deadly fear,
TILL I got her put,
I THANK you.

WHY HUSBAND HANDICAPS A STAGE CAREER

Johanna Howland, Divorced
Actress, Tells Reason for Lifting Matrimonial Lid

By Arthur Brisbane

WHY are divorces so prevalent among people of the acting profession?

No doubt you've often wondered about that. You've discussed it with your friends.

"Why?" you have exclaimed, "there's scarcely an actress or actor who can mention who hasn't been divorced at least once." Then you mention notable exceptions, but you add that "they are only the exceptions which prove the rule."

Why is this? Johanna Howland explains in next Sunday's Advertiser and American. She says a husband is a handicap. That a home is an anchor which holds one fast to mediocrity. Speaking from the woman's angle, she says: "There is always a lid in matrimony, and every man is more or less an expert in placing it. That matrimonial lid destroys the gift of the artist."

And so Johanna Howland, after thirteen years of wedded life, as the wife of the brilliant Canadian poet and novelist, left her husband. He has divorced her for desertion, and now she is free to climb to the heights of her ambition. "No more matrimony for me!" is her conclusion.

Of course, the exception may be the rule. There may be just as many happily married stage folk as there are divorced ones. It may be that the divorces get into the papers with more frequency—that is all. Consider, as contrast to the sad case of the Stringers, the pretty war romance of Ida Adams, actress and famous American stage beauty, and Sir Randolph Littlehale Baker, baronet and war hero. Ida Adams, now Lady Baker, mistress of great estates and old country houses, is a very remarkable young woman—a woman of character and brains and rare good taste, as well as beauty, and friends of the couple say it is an unexcelled marital partnership. Keep your eye on this pair—it is dollars to doughnuts they will "live happily ever after!"

There are a lot of other interesting things promised for next Sunday. All about an X-ray method of keeping tabs on your lungs—conditions in tuberculosis, pneumonia, pleurisy and all other diseases of the chest—"a living autopsy." How New York will relieve the constant menace of food and fuel rations through the tying up of harbor traffic by fog, ice and strikes, is another interesting feature.

Do this, an unparalleled engineering feat will be attempted—nothing less than the construction of a double-deck tunnel under the Hudson river. Lady Duff-Gordon, the famous "Lucky" says that "the styles of afternoons gowns is infinite variety." Three of her latest designs are shown next Sunday.

Don't forget the Comics (You won't after you've seen 'em).

All in next Sunday's Advertiser and American.

Today

Women: Three Items
A Vampire Gallery
Wanted: A Ducking Stool
An Argentine Plank

By Arthur Brisbane

In this "Today" column, some time before the war broke out, the following suggestion was offered to those inclined to look ahead:

The day will come when Japan will be needed to look after revolutionary conditions in Asia, and when Germany will be needed to act as a buffer between Western Europe and anarchy in Russia. There were geniuses, including wise Senators, who misunderstood that suggestion. They perhaps understand it more clearly today.

You have on this earth fifteen hundred million human beings, the great majority civilized with life, and many hundreds of millions absolute savages, under a thin veneer, or no veneer, of civilization, such civilization, such organized intelligence as the world possesses, it is badly, and actually now that war has erupted, old wounds, and people buried deep in misery, dumb bitterness, is a-begun to talk and tell what they want.

Two thousand homes sacked in Egyptian riots, it is one too many for today. That is not reassuring. Count Karni of Hungary, the ex-royal and alleged to have been shot; the usual outbreak in a Bolshevik mob.

If two thousand homes are sacked in Egypt, where the East has powerful forces, not out for what may happen in India, where hundreds of millions of lives that are not worth living.

The doctor who visits your home tells you that scarlet fever waits for him, because of the conditions in which it may have the patient. It causes deafness and other troubles.

Doctors of the world, now consulting in Paris, learn that war is a disease; that, when it ends, appears to end, leave other complications more difficult to cure than war.

Nobody pays enough attention to women, in newspapers, in literature or anywhere else. When your attention is paid, it is of a foolish kind, usually.

In New Jersey, they seek some way to punish a woman as a "common scold." They would like to revive the "ducking stool." How many "ducking stools" were ducked every time they would scold, about bills, about children, and a thousand other things?

New Jersey also furnishes this interesting item. A police judge says he is "determined to make women quit leading men away from their families." Poor innocent men, according to this judge, are led astray on the streets by "vampires." These vampires, it seems, powder their faces, then flirt with men, and the judge is going to have their photographs taken and sent to the police authorities. He will institute a "vampire gallery." This Newark police judge is a worthy son of the descendant of Adam.

Sensible men come from the Argentine republic, where a woman is running for the Legislature, the principal plank in her platform being "better treatment for the mothers of unborn children."

In the ancient days, when a mother was allowed to take fruit from any tree in anybody's garden. Her condition gave her a right to the fruit—she didn't have to ask permission. Now she is allowed to get down on her hands and knees and scrub office buildings in the night time, after the men have gone home. After the child is born she is allowed to pay fifteen or twenty cents a quart for milk to feed it, and buy coal by the pallid at the rate of thirty dollars a ton to keep the baby warm, and pay out of her miserably small income the shameful taxes of a dozen corporations that represent "taxation without representation" on life's necessities.

The women of Argentina have a rock noddle in her platform. If men of opinion take more attention to such things they would have less Bolshevikism to worry about.

For more than a year it has been said in this column that Italy could not possibly consent to Jugoslav control of the eastern shore of the Adriatic, could not allow her eastern coast, with no protecting harbors, to be open to attack from innumerable harbors of the Adriatic east coast.

Italy intends to maintain her ancient civilization, her ancient liberties, built up with the courage and blood and genius of great men. She does not intend to change her way. You understand the attitude of Italy in regard to the Adriatic coast when you read the suggestion that the Jugoslavians, with Hungary in the Balkan movement, make themselves part of the dark cloud that is hanging over the East.

It is fortunate there is little doubt that the authorities of the United States and of the Allies in Paris will realize the justice of Italian position in view of recent developments.
